A military installation is located on the south side of Novaya Miropol, approximately 12 kilometers (km) east of Polonnoye (Figure 1). It covers about 145 acres and is road served.

The major buildings in the installation are (Figures 2 and 3) four multistory barracks, six administration buildings, eight storage buildings, five vehicle storage buildings, two support buildings, and a guard tower. A small revetted building at the north end of the area is a possible ammunition burning facility.

Training facilities serving the installation are two small-arms ranges and an athletic field.

The installation is active and little change has been noted since [REDACTED]. Improvement in quality of the photography reveals buildings that are not new, but could not be identified on earlier photography.
